

Mazen Rawashdeh

SVP & Chief Technology Officer

Mazen Rawashdeh is eBay's Chief Technology Officer, responsible for driving a large-scale technology vision, strategy, implementation and transformation across the company.

Mazen rejoined eBay in 2016 from Twitter, where he was Vice President of Infrastructure Engineering & Operations, helping to scale the business through its IPO. Mazen was also responsible for building, scaling and managing Twitter's global infrastructure.

Previously, Mazen spent more than eight years at eBay and was most recently Vice President of Technology Operations until 2011. Before eBay, Mazen spent time in technical roles at LoudCloud and Oracle Corporation.

He holds a BSBC in Computer Science and Mathematics from Chapman University.

Mazen's Favorite eBay Experience

"My 18-year-old son is an avid eBay buyer and seller. I regularly hear his compliments and complaints on both buying and selling experiences. This reminds me how relevant and accessible our commerce platform is to users of all ages."