

Murray Lambell

VP AND GENERAL MANAGER, EBAY UK

Murray Lambell is General Manager of eBay UK, leading one of eBay's biggest markets with 29 million active buyers per month and over 300,000 UK small business sellers.

Growing up with parents who grew a local business from scratch, Murray has always had a passion for helping small businesses and entrepreneurs succeed, recognising the power of the eBay platform in unlocking economic opportunity. He joined eBay Europe in 2008, starting in the loyalty and retention team before becoming the Head of Business Selling Strategy. He then held various commercial and strategy roles in the UK, and was appointed Vice President of Trading in 2017, responsible for all of eBay's Business to Consumer and Sales & Operations activity.

Prior to eBay, he was with British Airways for eight years, joining on their graduate programme and working across commercial, marketing and service areas of the business.

Murray holds a BA in History and Languages from the University of Exeter and an MBA from London Business School.
