HALL OF FAME HOPEFULS:

Derek Jeter as THE POSTSEASON PRINCE

Despite his 'Hopeful' status, Jeter's baseball card sales on eBay are currently outpacing those of former Yankee and legendary Hall of Famer Babe Ruth by 137% since 2013.

Mike Trout as THE LOOMING LEGEND

The six time Silver Slugger has the second most expensive card ever sold on eBay at $400,000, quickly catching up to legend and current most-expensive card holder Mickey Mantle. From 2017 to 2018, Mike Trout trading card searches more than doubled on eBay.

Albert Pujols as THE FIRST-BALLOT BAT

Pujols consistently brings his heavy hitting power to eBay, averaging more than 30 trading card sales per day. Over the last six years, the number of Albert Pujols trading cards sold is about as consistent as his at bat performances.

Bryce Harper as THE POWERHOUSE

Searches for Bryce Harper cards spiked following his trade to the Phillies in March 2019, up 156% from the month prior. Bryce Harper card searches this year are now on track to outpace last year's by 140%.

Aaron Judge as THE RISER

After being named 2017 Rookie of the Year, Aaron Judge trading card sales on eBay increased by an unprecedented 2,808%. During the same season, Judge became the first rookie to win the Home Run Derby, and following his historic victory, searches for his trading cards soared by more than 90% from the prior month.
